Uma Kangai

I was recently introduced to the art and industry of Matchmaking and got the opportunity to immerse myself into the matchmaking and dating industry last year by working with one of London's best Matchmakers and hanging out with some of the world's top Matchmakers and Dating Coaches all as a result of becoming obsessed with watching Millionaire Matchmaker last summer which led me on a very exciting journey into the professional world of love and dating!

As a Fashion Designer I was super interested in learning more about the mysterious industry of matchmaking as I was living in London and enjoying dating, maybe getting too caught up in some of the drama at times, and wondering when I was going to meet the right one for me! As a Libra I love to be in Love and am naturally passionate about anything to do with relationships, love and dating, I love talking about relationships and giving my girlfriends advice so I was super curious to learn and find out about this interesting industry!

I want to share all that I've learnt about the science behind love, dating, and its dramas, that I only wish I'd learnt earlier, to those who just like me love dating and want to meet their dream match, but want to learn how to make better choices for themselves, and to successfully match-make their own love life!

Through my journey I've come to appreciate how beliefs on self-worth and feeling fully deserving play a massive part in the happiness of our relationships so I would like to empower and inspire belief to any girl who needs it that you are fully deserving and capable to have the relationships you dream of, no matter who you are, what your background is, no matter how faraway and unlikely your dream relationship feels! Getting your dream love life isn't about following dead set rules on dating, having 'high' standards, or portraying a 'perfect' you. The easiest way to attract true love and relationships that are aligned with you as a person, is through your mindset/beliefs, mixed with simple practical principles.

I hope to inspire your perspective and style to dating to make you feel more empowered, confident and deserving about the relationships you attract into your life!
